If you're using native Garmin data files, they will appear in My Computer, Downloads.It has often been a pain to mount a bicycle to a rack or bicycle carrier. Even if the mounting points are properly aligned it can be difficult to lock the bicycle to the rack. Some racks can be heavy and rigid and this can cause stress on the bike frame and on the mounting points. Also, bicycles can weigh over 400 lbs. and be extremely cumbersome to mount and mount to a fixed rack. So, many times people have opted to just place their bicycles in a parking spot to be picked up later. This may not seem like a big deal, but when there are a lot of parking spots it can be a problem. When there are a lot of parking spots there is a greater chance that bikes will be thrown on the ground by people who get impatient and want to leave. As a result, bike racks installed at public locations are constantly getting knocked down and vandalized as they are the target of thieves and vandals. As a result, there is a need for a more durable bicycle carrier system. In many cases there are racks for trucks and other large vehicles that are set into the ground or mounted to a rack that is permanently attached to the vehicle. This can cause problems for people who park their cars on streets that are in a construction zone, because there is no way to mount a conventional bicycle rack to the rack that is permanently attached to a vehicle, so the racks are often taken down. Also, even if people can find a permanent location to park their vehicles, other people may park their vehicles blocking the entrance or exit of the driveway, garage, or parking spot. Sometimes just parking a car with the wheels raised off the ground, with the rear of the car or truck in the air can be a better choice. But some conventional bicycle racks require a support structure that will be fixed to the ground, this can make it difficult to keep
