In the current state of affairs, we are currently being flooded with multiple news of new blockchain implementation, which implies that blockchain technology is not going anywhere soon. This poses a great opportunity for business owners who would like to move to blockchain based platforms. The areas where a business can use blockchain technology for much needed solutions will depend on the types of services or products they provide. One of these types is the fintech. The fintech industry is one which is very affected by the blockchain technology because almost every business required a third party service. For example, it will be very difficult to run an online store if you cannot even monitor the payments that are happening and online stock. Other than the fintech industry, we can also find other industry that can benefit from blockchain technology. One of these industry is the agriculture. Agriculture is now being heavily affected by the blockchain technology because they store
