Newer chemotherapy protocols incorporating cytarabine A number of new chemotherapy protocols have utilized new cytarabine derivatives in addition to cytarabine alone. Notably, a study of standard cytarabine therapy for adults with AML, with or without prior cytarabine, is given as a 24-hour infusion of 8 g/m^2^, daily for 5 days \[[@B66]\]. A phase III study of cytarabine in AML with primary induction failure showed that 34 of 62 patients could be successfully rescued with a second course of therapy. Patients with AML in second remission or longer duration of first remission had superior survival \[[@B67]\]. Fewer studies have 570a42141b
