Download Corel Draw X6 Highly Compressed 208In more than 30 years of professional sports, Joe Kelly has had to do his fair share of silly things for the sake of family first. As a football player, he plays down the line. As a father, he's opening the bleachers to his kids. Kelly needs all of the family time he can get. His son, Chris, is expected to be the Vikings' starting right tackle next season, his daughter, Alyssa, will be a sophomore in high school this fall, and his wife, Katy, is in the sixth month of her pregnancy. After the Vikings' final preseason game, the couple were in the middle of having their family photo taken. Katy, who has had three C-sections, was in a lot of pain — and thought it was time to open the bleachers at their home to the public, to provide some relief for everyone. "I came in the house and saw her face," said Kelly, who also has two older children, Michael and Ryan. "My first thought was, 'I can't believe I have to have Katie in the first place.' " Tight end Kyle Rudolph has seen it before: Kelly's desire to put family first. "This is not the first time that I've heard that," Rudolph said. "It's pretty unique." Kelly and Katy met in Annapolis, Md., when they were in high school. Kelly, a two-year starter for the Navy Midshipmen, was a fifth-round pick of the Raiders in the 2015 NFL draft. He and Rudolph spent two years together before Kelly went to his senior season at Notre Dame. Kelly's family moved from Annapolis to Frisco about three years ago. Kelly and Katy married about eight months ago. Kelly has been working out with the Vikings and spending extra time with his family and that's all he can ask
