We were told that commercial facilities at the site -- football, soccer, hockey, rugby, etc. -- could be built in a manner that would not interfere with the running of St. Andrew's. The City's mantra of "build now, operate and maintain later" made perfect sense in the operating world and is completely understandable in a municipal setting -- but not if the city is indeed committed to keeping the facility open. We have some problems. First is that there's no indication of how extensive the demolition of the long-unsightly stadium will be. Perhaps hundreds of thousands of yards of earth and buildings will be razed. Not surprisingly, the long-unsightly stadium will be replaced with much more handsome facilities. The problem is, the less-than-perfect facilities at St. Andrew's are the result of a building boom. How much money will be dumped in the ground to make beautiful facilities of a smaller size? And, if the stadium is never replaced, will that land be open to development? Will the McGuinty government decide that it's better to sacrifice the land than to keep open a facility the sports public thinks is unworthy of the replacement? So, will the City spend another $100 million or $250 million (on a possible figure of $75 million) on facilities at St. Andrew's? That's not the problem. The problem is that, if the facilities are never replaced, will we ever get a new stadium and what will be the cost of that stadium? What if the new facilities are so good that the City gets by with the current facility and forgoes a new one? How long will the City let the stadium-site sit vacant without planning for a future facility? I

What's new in Echoes Of The Past: The Citadels Of Time Collector's Edition:

, Southern Fury, Starship Attack, Badlands, Alpine Slide, and Whizzer — make up the start of the wave. And there are five more in the next half hour! Money spent so far: North Pole - $48.89 Southern Fury - $48.89 Starship Attack - $49.89 Badlands - $48.89 Alpine Slide - $49.89 Whizzer - $47.97 Epic Palaces — the dark side of the Moon; old meets new in a departure from InfinityWorld's Pyramids and Towers of Cairo The Palace of the Ruler of the Universe, seen in the Artist's Concept artwork and later located in Space Minus One, was internally subdivided into two major halls; and a smaller, but equally important, Hall of Eternity. Epic Palaces — the Hall of Fate in Space Minus One and seen in the Artist's Concept artwork Epic Palaces — the Hall of Eternity as portrayed in the Artist's Concept artwork and seen in the Visitor's Center Inside the Epics Area, in Sector 608, two concentric rings were used; the Infinity World's Pyramids and Towers of Cairo, and the Epic Halls of Fate, Eternity, and Victory. As seen in the Epic Roller Coasters, two different types of people will enjoy the attractions of North Pole, Southern Fury, and Starship Attack; where the frivolity of pyramids will be appreciated by the youth, and the effects of speed will thrill the thrill-seekers. Badlands, Alpine Slide, and Whizzer retain the feel of pyramids and royal architecture, but do so in a setting with a backdrop of modern-day technology; giving the child adventurer a taste of the future. There are also twelve other Epic Palaces; the artist of the Epic Roller Coasters, GeoWare, must have loved them! Epic Roller Coasters — the passing of the years since its Summer 1991 opening [Updated 8/02.58] 1993: Four new rides were added; and much of the ride track was tweaked. 1994: Another six new rides were added; and more of the ride track was tweaked. 1999: Another six new rides were added; plus an exciting new ride method of attraction operation. 2001: Another six new rides were added;

What's New Fixes and performance improvements Version 1.5.1: Fixed a crash when attempting to visit certain shops that might happen when using a PS4 controller. Version 1.5.0: New features: Added a brand-new quest that tasks you with investigating the mysterious appearance of an old airship that's floating in the sky Added a new shop that sells a commodity used for making objects in the world Added a new function to the book selling NPC to let you choose to buy the book while your character is in a menu screen (might work on the PS4) Added a function to force your character to speak even when you've equipped a mask Added a new NPC whose job it is to detect the presence of Eyes of the Anguar in secret locations around Tarnum New music by Maribel Promodero Removed the NPC "Eyes of the Anguar" quest Removed the NPC "Drow Shop" from the Catacombs and the NPC "Book Seller" from Tarnum The PS4 version might crash when trying to access certain areas of the Catacombs and Tarnum. This is due to an odd bug that occurred while trying to access the cloud save on the PS4. I've fixed this problem for now, but we might have to turn it off for the future if it happens again. Until then, please report any cases. Sometimes when using the PS4 controller, the game will crash when trying to exit the file
