Your kingdom's invincible. Your super-human. Your playground. In the hyper-reality of VR, there is only one way to deliver a blow, and that's through movement: through the player's body, in any direction, at any speed. Zero Losses is a game that combines three pillars of the Smash Virtual Reality experience: Physical motion Pure movement Connection Tilt the table, twist the world, and find the player's center of gravity, into a future in which your body is all a weapon, and no weapon is all a body. Marevo Collective and The Creative Assembly are pleased to present Zero Losses for Oculus Rift, PlayStation VR, and HTC Vive, the first of the ExtraCities: Fusion events, exclusive to the Machinima-Fusion channel. To learn more about the game, tune in to the Machinima-Fusion channel and join the Zero Losses Open Beta on Friday, October 27. Crush the infinite enemy. Welcome to the battlefield Taking a seat in a regular office chair, surrounded by a screen and a workplace, you'd swear you were sitting at home. This illusion is reinforced by the stationary gameplay, and the constant movement you're directed to perform. You don't see enemies. You don't hear audio clues. You have no way of knowing where they are, when they will attack, or what will happen when you defeat them. On the contrary: If you're good, you could easily be killed. If you're bad, you're already dead. Zero Losses is a game that requires a total engagement. It's a labyrinth of combat in the exploration and discovery of your body and its limits in fast, thrashing action. The game consists of two modes: Deathmatch and Skirmish, each with a story and a bracket. Deathmatch mode is a classic experience, where you fight wave after wave of increasingly powerful enemies, while Skirmish is a standalone game mode where you fight a single enemy in various arenas, learning about the intricacies of combat one encounter at a time. There's no running back, no respawns, and no being shown where to go. You're a body on a mission in a real-time hyper-reality, with no

What's new in Fat Baby:

Learn Level: Thursday and Friday still at ISU and Friday (occasionally) at LFS. Currently, her group sits around 10 people while she is out testing her limits, spreading knowledge, and watching what everyone else is doing. She proved she was a true omikuji master several years ago when she came up with a list for a girl named Shion. The list was of spooky things that could happen to her if she did something scary at the time. These were some of the items, done in the manner of the OMNIFIED GAME OF OMUJI as it is played in Japan. She's never had a parallel list for the guys and found it difficult to write one and is therefore proud of this list. Finally, the US has once again introduced a free-trade agreement to a potential partner, the EU. The administration has sought to emphasize that the action would be to increase rather than decrease the number of imports to the US, but apparently it still has to answer for any trade-war repercussions. Perhaps worth keeping an eye on in the future, though things could escalate quickly. Israel is having a terrible time. Lots of attacks by Hezbollah and Hamas, with over 14,000 rockets being fired into it so far. For the most part, this is thanks to a strategic alliance with America, but Israel doesn't know that. It is seen as "those damn Jews" working with "the king of snakes" and things go from there. War has not been talked about for years, but no one can find the cessation button on it. Israel responded to this by having some talks with some very frisky frenchmen. The deal they came to is basically this - Richard Nixon wins that rock-paper-scissors game again. Israel has no qualms about refusing to supply Jihadists with weapons and will vigorously refrain from cooperating with any country that helps fund Hamas directly, but it will deal with France and even more so with the US over the matter. End of conflict? Pshaw. July 21 brings the sports anime Spirit of the Rebellion as the season 2 finale to the Original series we all know and love! This month is unique in that it features two sports anime coming from a different style than usual - this time, we're looking at the great sage, the wise teacher, and the man who will surely know the answer to
