Give only those keywords with document, which appears more than once. Use q{ to exclude a keyword. Use quotes and it is not included in the search. @ Gabor Toth You could remove documents that are associated with multiple keywords. This may not include all the documents you want to omit but will minimize them. This is key filter type and not as useful as the second type. You can also use a range of dates instead of the string "year" for min or max (see doc_date_range option of the __index_date command) Command Key Filters For KeywordFilters you can use the keyword filter type. You can set a list of keywords for a particular site and document, documents that contain (are) those keywords are given those keywords and removed from the search results. This is done with the keyword filter type. The following example uses the interval and value functions (for min and max). The site, and its infamous fence, officially marks the first port of entry for millions of immigrants. But today marks the day one of the first colleges in America made its mark upon the first wave of potential immigrants – the first African American college. Morehouse College was founded in Atlanta, Georgia in 1867. This followed the first wave of free African Americans escaping slavery in the South, which reached the port of Savannah, Georgia in 1864. The college was established to give these freed slaves an opportunity to get an education. By 1862 when the Civil War ended, the college had already established its base in the city. Quick history lesson. Pre-Civil War slavery was different from modern slavery. That's because slaves weren't owned by their masters. They were owned by
