2009 A: The Serial Number is the first two words of a MultiSim Patch file. For a full description, visit the NI Software web page here. In most cases, the patch should be less than 100 characters long, with the first two words being the Serial Number. For example, if the patch is F1-2010B-1930-F1_2010-051520%20.pdf.wav, then the Serial Number would be F1-2010B-1930. When using PuTTY, you are unable to upload patches because the Window's "Upload" program does not allow you to upload patches larger than 100 characters. However, if you download a MultiSim patch from the web page above, the patch will be about 10 MB. Since most WiFi connections can handle about 5 MB of data per second, downloading the patch should not take more than 10 minutes or so. #!/bin/bash set -e # If the same tool is specified multiple times, then that tool is only # selected once, and anything that follows that tool is ignored. Here, # we want to make sure that we don't have a tool specified more than # once, even though some of the tool arguments may be repeated. usage() { echo "$0: [-c] [-h]" } # We use "list" as the "base" tool, because it returns a list of # installed tools that we can match against
