What is advanced java programming, which is the latest pattern in the programming world? of the MP will refer to all circumstances at the time of her injury, including any information in her personal history (such as her family, diet, exercise, age, or any previous injury or medical history). The MPS members are required to review these reports, as they are important to the patients' diagnosis and treatment. It is therefore important for the members to study these records in a timely manner in order to capture the relevant information. 5.. Conclusion {#s5} =============== The findings show that all MPS members spend a great deal of time on medical record reading, which can lead to information overload and difficulties in clinical judgement. In this study, we used focus groups to analyse the factors that influence the reading of medical records. We found that these factors include knowledge, personal characteristics, implicit attitudes, reading strategies, and reading environments. Our research findings are significant for strategies related to facilitating medical record reading and meeting the needs of patients. These factors can be targeted to improve the medical record reading activity of MPS members, in order to improve patient care. In particular, our findings can help to change the current reading-related behaviour of MPS members. Conflict of interest: We confirm that none of the authors have any conflict of interest. Funding: This study was supported by the Nursing College of the Second Military Medical University, grant number 2011ZD07; a postgraduate studentship from the Nursing College of the Second Military Medical University, grant number 2012B001; and a postgraduate studentship from the Institute of Nursing, Second Military Medical University, grant number 2013ZG11.
