Q: Excel 2011 UDF.CSV Truncate Error For a web app I am building, I need a button to export a column to a.csv. As a.csv, I needed a comma delimited document, so I added a UDF to the Excel project. I tested it on an empty worksheet and it worked perfectly. The following code was tested in a sub: Call Csv_UDF_Create_CSV(Sheet1.Range("A1"), ";") In the code: Public Function Csv_UDF_Create_CSV(Src As Range, delim As String) As String Dim myFile As String, myWorkbook As Workbook, myActiveWorkbook As Workbook Dim myCSV As String 'Create the file name. myFile = "c:\out.csv" If Dir(myFile) = "" Then MkDir myFile 'Open the target workbook. Set myActiveWorkbook = ActiveWorkbook Set myWorkbook = Workbooks.Open(myFile, False, True) myCSV = myWorkbook.Worksheets(1).Range("A1").Text myWorkbook.Save myWorkbook.Close(True) Set myWorkbook = Nothing MsgBox myCSV 'Give back the text using the text converter. Csv_UDF_Create_CSV = myCSV Set myWorkbook = Nothing Set myActiveWorkbook = Nothing End Function When the user presses the button: Call Csv_UDF_Create_CSV(Sheet1.Range("A1"), ";") it outputs the following error: Run-time error '9': Unable to get the ReDim Preserve property of the WorksheetFunction class I'm not sure if this is a coding issue or a problem with the macro being called. Any help would be greatly appreciated. EDIT: Function Csv_UDF_Create_CSV(Src As Range, delim As String) As String Dim my Knowledge regarding the essential facts of in vitro diagnostics and rare diseases essential for the optimal conduct of high-risk prenatal diagnosis. Knowledge regarding in vitro diagnostics (IVD) and rare diseases essential for the optimal conduct of high-risk prenatal diagnosis (HR-PD) could be helpful for HR-PD providers to better understand, manage and appropriately inform patients. The aim of this survey was to assess HR-PD providers' knowledge regarding IVD and rare diseases essential for the optimal conduct of HR-PD. Eligible participants were invited to fill out an online survey. Three hundred and sixty HR-PD providers were invited to fill out the survey between May and October 2016. Thirty-five responses were received, an overall response rate of 10.4%. The majority of respondents had extensive experience with rare disease testing [72.7% (25/35)]. The mean number of rare diseases tested for was 0.53 (IQR 0.25-1.00). Eleven respondents (31.4%) reported having received counselling regarding the value of genetic testing with non-invasive prenatal testing (NIPT), whereas most respondents reported that they did not receive counselling regarding the importance of IVD (91.4%, 31/34). Furthermore, 82.9% (29/35) of respondents indicated that they would be interested in an educational programme aimed at improving HR-PD providers' knowledge regarding IVD and rare diseases. This survey demonstrated that HR-PD providers have limited knowledge regarding IVD and rare diseases essential for the optimal conduct of HR-PD, suggesting that an educational programme could help to improve knowledge in this field.Q: Python: How to get parent of a method from imported module? There's a module foo.bar imported to another module foo. Yet, when I try to do foo.bar(), I don't know how to get the parent foo. While I could do some ugly things, I would like to find a built-in way. For example, something like method_of(bar) might work. I just couldn't find a way to do it yet. A: You can get it with type(name).__module__. After that you need to join it with a dot. So if you have a module object m then m.type(m.foobar).__module__ will return the module that contains foobar. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a medical device, and
