seedprimer. Q: How to specify a certificate in the Google API client library I am attempting to access a Google+ API service from a Google App Engine application. My application does not have a certificate for this domain. As a result, I am using an intermediate certificate from a trusted authority (VeriSign), as follows:

```
SSLContextBuilder builder = SSLContextBuilder.create(); builder.loadTrus tMaterial(getClass().getResourceAsStream(" /trustedcert.pem"), "password").build();
SSLConnectionSocketFactory sslConnectionSocketFactory = new SSLConn ectionSocketFactory(builder.build()); Socket ioSocket = new Socket(Hostname, 5005); ioSocket.getOutputStream().write(("GET /v1/people/+me?access_token=" + accessToken).getBytes()); ioSocket.getOutputStream().flush(); String returnData = new String(ioSocket.getInputS tream().readAllBytes());

System.out.println("Returned data is: " + returnData); From the server-side, when I attempt to make the connection, I get the following message: I/O exception (IOException: no such identity) Upon further investigation, I noticed that Google's Java client library makes the connection to googleapis.google.com regardless of the certificate. I would like to force Google's client library to use the intermediate certificate, but I have not found a way to do this. How can I modify the Java client library to use my intermediate certificate? A: I had the same problem. I created a class to handle the SSL context and the option to set a custom certificate on the socket. This is the abstract class that will be inherited by all the different implementations.

package nl.a.b.f.j.ssl; import java.io.IOException; import java.io.OutputStream; import java.net.Socket; import javax.net.ssl.SSLContext; import javax.net.ssl.SSLSocket; import javax.net.ssl.TrustManager; import javax.net

Zero issue for setInterval() timer I am trying to make a function that will count down from a set value of minutes. So when the timer is set to 5 minute, it will count down to 1 minute and then back up to 5 minutes.

Here is what I have so far: function countDown(time) { var timer = setInterval(function() { var d = new Date(Date.parse(timer)); var seconds =
d.getSeconds(); var mins = Math.floor(d.getMinutes() / 6); var secs =
d.getSeconds(); secs -= secs % 60; mins = mins - secs / 60; if (mins countdown
