Build and train your own team of FUT stars and take them into action in new ways in this battle of the best players in the world. FIFA Ultimate Team is a new way to interact with clubs, your favorite players, and your very own customizable squad. Transfer entire teams of up to three players from your My Club, select kits, and continue to evolve your team with new player traits. With over 25 million active players, FIFA Ultimate Team is the most popular and richest game mode in the franchise. The Journey: In The Journey, your soccer career takes a unique and emotional journey in the emotional support of your club, your teammates, and your loved ones. Experience the highs and lows that come with representing your country, and determine whether you'll be the next FIFA World Cup champion or the next star to leave your club. The Journey can be played in all modes - Career, Online Season, and The Journey. Matchday - Face the opposition as the referee who leads your squad into battle - physically and psychologically. Dive into a full match as you control the actions of your players as the action unfolds. Social Club - Kick off your experience with your favorite clubs, on your favorite devices, all wrapped in your favorite social experiences. If the Demo is to be believed, some of these new modes will be pretty decent. I'm interested to see how they handle the mode for training pitches. I think that's something that EA forgot about for last year's FIFA. Nothing like a realistic game of soccer. BE A REP! In this game, that's exactly what you will be. Play in 40 different online or offline modes, just not career mode. Not only will you get a chance to play online, but you will play with first class referees. You will have full control over the flow of play, your tactics, your substitutions, your overall performance and more. You will have total control over everything, with no elements of luck or chance. Your players will know that they have nothing to fear from you at all. You will be the master of the game, and they will be at your mercy. You will be more than just a referee in this game. You will have all the talents of a true soccer player. Master all the new attacking and defensive tactics. Be a champion and challenge the other 5,000 registered players to prove it. Not a bad demo and I'm happy with it so far. My biggest fear with football games is that everything is suddenly
