When an app loads and no longer is openable, the app shows up on the taskbar and in the "not open" list, but it doesn't tell me anything. I want to know why the app cannot be opened and at least what's the path to what's causing this. I'm using Windows 7. A: If you can see the window in the Task Bar but can't open it via a mouse click, right-click and Open in a new window should open it for you: A: You can get much more information by looking at a dump file (either on disk or by using a debugger). To see the dump, run your app in VS2010 with the debugger attached (Ctrl+F5). To see the dump, press F5 to start the program, select "Advanced", and then "Attach to process", then pick

"C:\Users\YourName\AppData\Local\Microsoft\Windows\TaskBar". You can then click Debug and drill-down into the stack trace (the set of messages listed, with different fonts, next to the event). A: There's a useful tool called Dumpster from Microsoft that's worth looking at and you can learn more about it here. On Windows 7 you can get to it by typing in the Start Menu Start->Programs->Accessories->System Tools->Dumpster... If you want to recover from a crash, run "Crash
