The top component has some logic to make a user. The bottom component is just a list of users. My question is how would I use props from the top component to the bottom component? I have tried: const App = () => { return(); }; export default App; and const EmployeeComponent = () => { return({this.props.child1}); }; export default EmployeeComponent; and const App = () => { return(); }; export default App; A: The situation is explained in the docs: Props by default are not included in tree-shaking. Solution: Pass the appropriate prop to EmployeeComponent: const EmployeeComponent = (props) => { const { child1 } = props; return ({ child1 }); }; const App = () => { return (); }; export default App; Q: Is it possible to do a remote backup from my desktop to my web server? I have a desktop, and I would like to be able to send files to and from my web server 6d1f23a050
