Kelloggs Mission Nutrition

Kelloggs is the largest producer of UHT milk in the world and the largest milk producer in the USA. Kelloggs launched a line of refrigerated milk in June, 2011. Kelloggs sold milk at a loss to make it competitive against non-Kellogg refrigerated milk. More than 60% of Kelloggs milk is sold outside North America. Kelloggs milk is responsible for $10 billion in net sales in 2012. Kelloggs milk is sold in more than 100 countries in flavors ranging from vanilla, strawberry and chocolate. This help Kelloggs to reach a growing segment in developed markets where Kelloggs is the only milk brand available. With the continued rise in obesity and diet-related chronic diseases, this new multimillion dollar Fund is one of the largest ever granted by our Foundation. All of the funds are focused on nutrition counseling, the skill that most informs people's food choices and has the largest impact on their wellbeing. Past grants have supported studies, education and training of nutritionists, as well as tools to help dietitians better connect with their clients. Studies show that nutrition counseling helps prevent obesity, improve health, and positively impact mental health and well-being. Dietitians consistently find that their clients are receptive to nutrition counseling and find it to be one of their most powerful tools in helping their clients to make healthier food decisions and achieve a healthier lifestyle. If you work with people who face a health challenge, go to the resource section of our web site to check out all the education and training that can help improve the health of everyone you care for, including your clients, patients, students, or family members. If you want to make a difference for your clients and the health of our society and planet through nutrition, apply today!

Kelloggs Mission Nutrition

Healthy people eat differently. We see this first-hand when creating Better Days for people across the globe by providing greater access to healthy food and nutrition for everyone through an integrated approach that not only changes what people eat but also how they eat, providing much needed education. Think about the nations breadbasket, the American heartland, and the specific communities that face tremendous nutritional needs. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) estimates that 1 in 5 babies in the U.S. do not receive adequate nutrition. Additionally, more than half of public school children (and four-in-ten of their families) struggle with daily hunger. In Michigan alone, over 700,000 children are eligible for free or reduced-price lunch, a third of which are at risk of becoming food insecure. Healthy eating is far more complex than measuring sugars and fats. In fact, nutrition experts recommend that all foods be included in the Healthy Eating Index (HEI) at all meals and all times of the day. HEI measures how much food a diet includes that is best for both your physical and mental health. But what about the air we breathe? Today, nitrogen oxides (NOx) and sulfur dioxide (SO2) are the primary air pollutants of concern in our nation. NOx produces particulates, ozone and ground-level ozone, and SO<sub>2</sub> is a precursor to fine particulate matter. Kellogg's mission nutrition Our country is facing extreme heat waves, intense downpours, harmful air quality, and much more. In fact, some of our most pressing issues are driven by climate change. The Environmental Protection Agency reports that heat waves cost $1.7 billion every summer in the U.S. alone. 5ec8ef588b
