I think Venners works far best when grouped, if your document contains hundreds or thousands of parts. Power of Venners is that it will recognize the times it has already printed a layout and, as a result, it will automatically move the page again for the next iteration of the layout. To produce a layout, use the pencil, not the eraser, for any corrections, as it will overwrite the work for the next layout. Keep your documents and layouts for your dream job, not your current job. If you do not need to keep working on your layout, then don't work on it. Save your layouts for special occasions. I tried to find this number on there but it was too late. Ive tried doing that three times now to no avail. If you don't have any layouts created in previous months, you will not find the option to clear the print cache. This is my first time trying your software and will recommend it to anyone who is just getting started with either UV layout and arts and fashion design. In my first days using it, I was able to accomplish almost all my design tasks thanks to your help. ZBrush is a great software for making designs, but it can be time-consuming to create the perfect overall look for a project. Thanks for helping me out in this endeavor. Oh yeah, I did run into a few problems with it, but they were resolved quickly. Thanks again!
